Email: jnyhof@depaul.edu

Jill Nyhof Rodriguez has been with DePaul since 2017. Before joining the DePaul Migration Collaborative as Project Manager, she served as Associate Director of the International Students and Scholar's Office. A DePaul 'Double Demon', she received her bachelor's degree in Arabic Studies and Community Service Studies and her master's degree in Refugee and Forced Migration Studies. She completed studies abroad and internships in Spain, Guatemala, and Jordan where she focused on migration and economic development.

She previously worked at RefugeeOne in Chicago. At RefugeeOne she managed refugee resettlement cases primarily from Eastern Africa and Syria. She also worked with and interpreted for asylum seekers from Cuba and Central America.
