Spring Term Course Descriptions

Active Citizens – Online Asynchronous (3/28/26 – 6/12/26) – C Kisiel

This is a cross-listed course between LL 305: Active Citizens and LSP 275: Lived Civics, the Social Contract & Public Life. Members of United States (U.S.) society are known for the high rate at which we participate in organizations that strengthen our communities. We coach our kid's sports teams, take meals to members of our congregations, and work for candidates we believe in; we stand up for the rights of our communities, speak out against injustice, and join marches to support or oppose government action. Many of us living in the U.S. today hope our contributions will make our communities better for ourselves, our families, and future generations. Yet how many of us have reflected on the underpinnings of our civic society, and the origins of our instinct to serve our communities – the idea of “the social contract?” The cross-listed Active Citizens and Lived Civics, the Social Contract & Public Life course is an interdisciplinary adventure that will guide students through the reading of primary theoretical texts on the social contract, with special attention to documents in U.S. history that have created or enforced laws and policies regarding race, inclusion, and exclusion. Students will discuss how the social contract has been central throughout U.S. history, even for those who were systematically excluded from full participation. Students will consider how the social contract plays out today, in society and in their own lives. While traditional civics classes involve explorations of the rights and duties of people living in a political society, this unique course will center the lives of students through the “lived civics” approach, which embraces the experiences of each student in their various communities as legitimate representations of civic life. Students will explore how to balance individualism with the needs of a community, and consider what rights and responsibilities mean in the current U.S. political and social climate. Throughout our study we’ll also examine the concept of citizenship broadly, and consider the knowledge and skills needed for engaging in thoughtful dialogue around meaningful and often controversial topics as active and empathetic community members. Whether you already contribute to your community or seek to deepen your understanding of civic life, race, or citizenship throughout U.S. history, this course will guide you in developing a framework for embracing, challenging, and grappling with important and contentious issues at the heart of contemporary U.S. civic culture and democratic life.

Integrative Learning / Leading for Social Change – Online Asynchronous. One required field trip – Saturday, April 25, 2026 – 9 am – 12 pm. – S Dumbleton

In this course, you will study the work of significant human rights activists in the United States, assess what they have accomplished, and apply what you have learned from their stories to a contemporary inequity you would like to address. The activists you will study include Bryan Stevenson (author of Just Mercy), who is fighting to end racism in the U.S. criminal justice system; Sister Helen Prejean (author of Dead Man Walking), who is fighting to end the Death Penalty in the U.S.; Dr. Quentin Young, who fought to improve health care for the poor in Chicago; Jane Addams, who fought to treat immigrants to Chicago with dignity and care, and Melba Patillo Beals, who, as one of the “Little Rock Nine,” fought to end segregation.

In reading the words of these influencers, you will encounter ideas and strategies that enabled them to bring about significant change, impacting their society as a whole. Building on what you have learned, you will analyze a contemporary human rights violation you find abhorrent, envision a change you would like to effect, then design a plan to bring about change.

Sister Helen, who has donated her papers to DePaul, will be at the University during the fifth week of term and will meet with this class to discuss her work, a life of activism, and your ideas.

Students interested in this course can take the course for either Integrative Learning or the human community option by enrolling in Leading for Social Change.

Domestic Travel

Travel and Learn in Boston – Travel May 21-25, 2026 – Online Hybrid. Required Zoom sessions Thursdays, 4/9, 4/23, 5/7, 5/28, 6/11 from 6-9pm CT – S McGury

Boston is a city of many faces. Culturally and educationally, it is no doubt a world-class city, yet it competes with New York City and Philadelphia for the title of best place to experience American history and art. Boston has fame for the riches made by old money profits but also for its colorful mob history. With such internal paradoxes and external competitors, why choose a travel course to Boston? Here is why: In this domestic travel course, participants will walk the famous freedom trail and other historic sites, visit Boston's famous art collections, and experience its diverse neighborhoods like Boston Common, Beacon Hill, and the North End. Issues such as Boston's immigrant populations, its fame as a seat of American higher education, its connection to events in American history, and its stake in the meaning of freedom and democracy will be discussed in the preparatory classes as well as in post travel learning as students work on individual projects. This high impact travel course involves online classes preparing for and debriefing from a long weekend— travel May 21st-25th and will be spent learning on site in the city of Boston. An additional course fee of $275.00 will be applied to each student's account for group admissions costs. Students will cover their own airfare, food, and accommodation expenses while in Boston.

You might qualify for a travel fee scholarship. Simply submit FAFSA at studentaid.gov and submit the General and SCPS applications on Scholarship Connect at depaul.academicworks.com.

Experiential Learning Practicum – Topic: The Wisdom and Power of Horses – Online Hybrid Day Retreat – May 16, 2026 & fee: $100 – A Matamonasa

The lives and destinies of humans and horses have been intricately interwoven since the beginning of history. In fact, horses are credited with being the species that most-revolutionized human culture. Horses have followed us onto the battlefield and carried us on life's journey for six-thousand years. Now that we no longer utilize these magnificent creatures as our 'beasts of burden', do horses have another destiny with regard to humankind? Currently, horses are partnering with people in vast ways, from the treatment of physical disabilities such as MS to helping combat veterans with PTSD. This course explores the ways in which horses can help over civilized people connect with the wisdom and rhythms of the natural world and the role that horses (and other animals) play in human health and healing. Utilizing readings, films, instructor presentations, as preparation, the course highlight will be a day-long experiential learning retreat working with horses. Students will have a powerful, unique opportunity to explore ways in which horses facilitate healing, our connection to our instincts (and the natural world) and expand non-verbal awareness. No prior experience is necessary. Retreat Experience & cost: May 16, 2026 - $100. The highlight of this course is a day-long retreat with the instructor in southeast Wisconsin – just over the Illinois border about 1 hour from Chicago. The retreat will focus on connecting nature and the horses with a variety of activities throughout the day. Continental breakfast, refreshments and lunch are provided. Class will also meet 3 times on ZOOM - at the start of the term, Monday April 6th: 7-8:30 pm, Monday May 11th: 7-8:30 pm the week before our in-person retreat at the farm, and then at the end of the term for final assignment presentations on Monday, June 8th:7-9 pm.

You might qualify for a travel fee scholarship. Simply submit FAFSA at studentaid.gov and submit the General and SCPS applications on Scholarship Connect at depaul.academicworks.com.

Experiential Learning Practicum – Topic: Mindfulness Retreat – Travel May 2026 – J Cantwell
Online Hybrid. Zoom Synchronous sessions Thursdays 4/2/26, 4/23/26, and 5/7/26 from 6- 8 pm. Retreat at Starved Rock State Park in Utica, IL – May 21-24th, 2026

Mindfulness meditation is a popular practice that can help build our attention and reduce our reactivity to life stressors. It is widely studied by neuroscientists, psychologists, philosophers, and others interested in a contemporary, secular approach to meditation. This course will provide students with both academic knowledge and first-hand experiential understanding of mindfulness meditation. Students will focus on developing personal and professional skills through reflection and engagement with course content. It provides students with a deep understanding of mindfulness meditation, its various techniques and its benefits.

This online-offsite hybrid course is a four-credit hour class and includes an in-person four-day mindfulness meditation retreat at Starved Rock State Park in Utica, IL – May 21-24th, 2026. In addition to the class's regular tuition, students pay a $775 fee that covers three nights of housing at Starved Rock Lodge and two group meals.

You might qualify for a travel fee scholarship. Simply submit FAFSA at studentaid.gov and submit the General and SCPS applications on Scholarship Connect at depaul.academicworks.com.
