Course Description

Ethical Business Behavior explores the ethical issues that business decision-makers face and examines the moral principles that are used to help resolve these issues. Ethical decisions in the workplace can have tremendous influence on the individuals and the corporations involved. The outcomes of unethical behavior can affect reputations, trust and career path. Results have been as severe as loss of employment, physical harm to individuals, corporate bankruptcy and even impacts to the economy. Students are placed in decision-making roles through exercises, case studies and role-playing. Reasoning skills are honed through identification of ethical issues and alternative means to analyze these issues. Ethical behavior is evaluated using analytical skills to apply ethical concepts to business situations.

Learning Outcomes

After completing this course, you will be able to:

- Apply ethical theories to assess causes and characteristics of misconduct using an Ethical Analysis Format.
- Identify options for how to respond to unethical conduct in various cases and support recommendations for implementing the best response.
- Assess the influence of organizations on employees' ethical decisions and steps that managers can take to prevent future cases of misconduct.
- Reflect on personal ethical decision-making in business situations and develop an ethical code of conduct.

Learning Strategies and Resources

Some learning activities, assignments and deadlines will vary depending on the delivery format of the course and may differ slightly from what is presented in this document.

We will evaluate business situations involving financial scandals, harm from poor product safety, deception in advertising, racial and sexual harassment, whistle-blowing, dangerous work environments and international ethics. Students select a business ethics issue of their choice to evaluate in a research analysis. Ethical decisions in the workplace are among the most significant that employees must make and can have tremendous influence on the individuals and the corporations involved.
