Course Description

In this course we will screen and discuss select noir films and develop skills of viewing and analyzing them closely. Highlighted topics will include the concept of genre in film; the relationship of genre codes to creativity; the dynamics of form and content; the tension between commerce and art; the auteur theory; psychologies of the divided self; representations of masculinity and femininity; and the question of what these films say about American society, post-World War II.

Learning Outcomes

After completing this course, you will be able to:

- Describe the concept of film noir and its key features
- Discuss, in both verbal and written discourse, select works of film noir
- Analyze such works closely in both verbal and written discourse

Learning Strategies and Resources

Some learning activities, assignments and deadlines will vary depending on the delivery format of the course and may differ slightly from what is presented in this document.

A variety of learning strategies will be employed in the course, including screenings; classroom lectures and discussions; print readings; journals entries; and a short paper.

Required Readings

Books and learning materials are available at the DePaul bookstore, at <http://depaul-loop.bncollege.com>, or through alternative sources.

Hirsch, Foster. The Dark Side of the Screen: Film Noir. Da Capo Press. 2008. ISBN 978 0 30681772 4.

Additional readings available on Electronic Reserve, at the DePaul Library. Login to Ares Course Reserves and select the course. Log in using your Campus Connect User ID and password. You will then get a page listing the courses in which you're enrolled that have readings posted in Ares. Click on the title of this course and the list of our electronic reserve readings will be displayed.

Also, you're required to screen our Week 3 film Laura outside of class. It is widely available from streaming services or may be found at your local library.

Learning Deliverables

Class participation. Students are expected to do the appropriate reading for each class session in a timely fashion. They are also expected to demonstrate that they have done so by participating in class discussion. In addition, students will submit the following pieces of written work:

Journal entries. Each week (excepting week 1 and including week 6, when we do not meet), students will submit a journal entry (around 4-500 words, typed, double-spaced) on the previous week's film. A format for journal entries appears on p. 8 of this syllabus, after the Schedule of Screening, Readings and Topics.

Final Paper. By Week 6 (that is, by March 18th, when we do not meet), each student will submit a short paper (about 5-6 pages – i.e., 1200-1500 words long) on one of the films which the course has highlighted, approached through the lens of the competence she/he is fulfilling in the course. Details on the Final Paper assignment will be discussed and distributed in handout form in class.

Assessment of Student Learning

A single journal entry is worth a maximum of 9 points, with 9 points indicating excellent work; 4.5 points indicating average work; and 2 or fewer points indicating work that is somehow lacking. In addition to allotting points, the instructor will provide written feedback on each journal entry. In journal entries, I am mostly looking for you to register a thoughtful response to the viewing experience in light of the 6 questions contained in the journal format.

The Short Paper will be graded as follows:

A grade of A designates work of high quality, (36-40 pts).

A grade of B designates work of good quality, (32-35 pts).

A grade of C designates work which minimally meets requirements set forward in assignment, (28-34 pts).

A grade of D designates work of poor quality which does not meet minimum requirements set forth in the assignment, (24-27 pts).

Attendance Requirements. A student who misses more than one class session will not have met the requirements for a passing grade.

Late Submissions. Throughout the course, assignments that are submitted late will receive reduced points and assignments that are more than two weeks late will receive zero points.

Distribution of Grade Points

Graded Assignments	Percentage of Final Grade
Attendance	5 pts
Class participation	10 pts
Journal entries (5)	45 pts
Short paper	40 pts

Grading Scale

A = 95 to 100	A- = 91 to 94	B+ = 88 to 90
